A COLORED SENSATION

TRAT ENACTED LAST WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

And the Denizens of That Part of our City on Jefferson Street Between Mechanic and Factory Startled by the Cry of "Bloody Murder"-The Question of "Who's Been Here Since I've Been Goue" Forcibly Illustrated at the Point of a Pistol-The Guilty Man Barely Escapes with His Life Down a Ladder, His Attire Consisting of Little Else but a Paper Collar.

On Wednesday midnight the denizens o and in the neighborhood of that part of the city between Factory and Mechanic streets known as the Kenney Arcade (it is the proper thing to call any kind of a building an arcade in Springfield) were somewhat startled by the cry of "bloody murder," followed by the rapid discharges from a revolver, which likewise was followed by a noise made by a man rapidly descending a ladder from the window of the room generally occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cox, colored lady and gentleman whom the law had made man and wife. But the man on the ladder was not William, by any means, for it was George Miller, who does the hashery act at Kidder's restaurant by the week. George, dear George, seemed to be somewhat disturbed in his mind on account of an interview with somebody from whom George seemed desirous of getting away speedily; it behooved George to be expeditious and he scemed to make time. He was attired in a dress more fitted for speed than for any proctection againsf the inclement season. It appears that Cox had surprised George in a highly objectionable proximity to his wife, and was disposed to make vigorous resentment then and there, and that is why George was going away so suddenly by way of the ladder. Cox had been somewhat suspicious of his wife and determined upon entrapping her, so he told her that he was going down to Xenia and would not return that night. This seemed to be just what she wanted for she sent word to Miller that George was gone and for him to come down and they would have a good time. But Cox concealed himself near the room and after waiting until atter 12 o'clock was rewarded by hearing Miller and his wife making the arrangements for a pleasant night. Miller seemed to be apprehensive of a surprise and had provided a ladder at the window and had his clothes in a bundle ready for a hasty exit. . The time was then that Cox stepped from his hiding place into the presence of the guilty pair, and drawing his revolver, began to play with dangerous recklessness upon Miller, one shot only taking effect, which will necessitate the amputation of one of Miller's fingers. The noise aroused a man by the name of Samuel Speers, who ran in and wrested the revolver from Cox, but he continued the attack with a chair, and hammered the intruder most mercilessly, until finally Miller escaped by the window, and into an outhouse, where he was found by officers Condron and Boyd, shivering with cold, and very much desirous of having his proper clothing, as well as the protection of the law. He appeared very thankful that he had escaped with his life, and after the officers brought his clothes he submitted to arrest quite willingly. He declares, however, that it was set up job on him all round; yet, at the same time, many people will think that it was a handsome success in bagging game. Cox pursued his wife to a neighbors house where she had fled, and gave her some of the same medicine he had administered to Miller. Miller's real name is George, but for some reason he is known as "Foot," but it will be many days before he will "foot" it down to Bill Cox's house again, because torty ladders won't save a man every time, and it's too cool just now for cotton clothing.

The New Government Building.

After a long time of doubtful waiting, the bill providing for a $100,000 government building to be erected in this city has passed both houses of Congress and is a law. As soon as the bill was passed, the following dispatch was received at this office:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4, 1885. To the Editor of the Globe-Republic:

A bill has just passed and will become a law, authorizing a Public Building at Springfield, costing one hundred thousand dollars. J. WARREN KRIFER.

satisfaction, than speculation as to the site of the new building began. Nearly every man has a personal preference that to his mind is the spot of all others, but as most of these would take the post office out near the county infirmary, the fair grounds, East street shops or Alpine rink somewhere, they, none of them, meet with general approval. Such preferences aside, the locations that meet with most favor are the old county jail lot, northeast corner of High and Spring streets; the northwest or southwest corner of High and Market streets, and so on. It is not generally known, but it is a fact, it seems, that it is required government building shall stand off from all that Mr. Verity has for some time manifested others, with a clear passage on all sides.

Another site is the old Republic building on Main street, and still another is the site of the Republican wigwam. As to the time when the work will be entered upon, nothing can be stated with any degree of certainty until General Keifer's return here, and perhaps not them, but it is sufficient for the present that the Champion City "got there"

At twenty minutes after two o'clock this morning, an alarm of fire was turned in from box 27, corner of East and Mound streets. calling the department to the Ohio Southern crossing at Central avenue. Here two cars, one a box-car caboose, and the other a boxcar loaded with lumber, were in flames. The yard engine quickly detached them, and the chemical first extinguished the blaze in the lumber car, which had not gained much headway. Attention was then turned to the caboose and in a few minutes the fire was out. The loss will probably not amount to over $100. The fire caught in the caboose, in the center of which stood a large stove. It is supposed the car was crowded with tramps, who had a big fire burning in the stove. is only about three weeks since an I., B. & W. caboose was burned almost at the same point.

About two o'clock yesterday morning the amily of B. O. Elitritz were awakened by the house of a neighbor, Mr. N. G. B azer, No. 144 women, or girls, as they were, were not giv-South Yellow Springs street. Mr. Elitritz is a veteran fireman and ex-"Rover," and with- as to who they were, it would be the right place, dashed out of his own and into the Blazer residence. The house was full of dense smoke, and in the sitting-room the sofe and easings of a double door by which it stood were just breaking into a blaze and were fast being consumed. The hydrant was found to be frozen, and as the cistern on the premises was about empty, there was nothing for it but to carry the burning piece of furniture and its burden of clothing out of doors, which young George Blazer and Mr. Elifritz proceeded to do, both burning their hands in the operation, Blazer's quite severely. In five minutes more the whole house would have been in flames. As it is the loss is placed at about $250, as both Mrs. Blazer and George lose valuable clothing. In surance is in Showers's agency. It is supposed that a friction match in a coat The announcement was scarcely made, and or vest pocket ignited when the garment was before the people could hardly express their thrown upon the so's and that the fire smouldered in the clothing until toward morning. The affair illustrates the utility of the district telegraph. Had there been a signal box in the house the engines cou.d have been called to the spot in much less time than was required to arouse the neighborhood.

> On affidavit filed in Probate Court yesterday Deputy Sheriff A. J. Baker went out to Lawrenceville and took into custody a well known citizen of German townsnip named David Verity, in whose case an inquest of lunacy will be held by Judge Miller next Monday morning at ten o'clock. It is said symptoms of insanity and of late is becoming violent, threatening members of the family and friends with bodily harm. The cause of the malady is not exactly known.

> A deeply-disgusted resident of South Shaffer street writes the GLOBE-REPUBLIC & communication without signing his or Ler name, bitterly complaining of the city council for neglecting to construct a crossing at Shaffer and Mulberry streets, where the mud is of a depth to make pedestrianism next to impossible, and also for neglecting to put up a gas lamp there. Numerous petitions have been sent in for these improvements, without the desired result; and from petitioning, the people out there have come to demanding. The G.-R. departs from an established rule as to communications without responsible signatures, to the extent of making this announcement of the wishes of the person sending in the complaint.

The Vocal Society will give a grand complimentary concert at the G. A. R. ball next Monday evening, and will give a concert at COAL IN BOX CARS one of the opera houses in May.

Mr. Chas. S. Ramsay, a Springfield boy before the war, now a substantial business man at Cheboygan, Mich., is here spending a few days among relatives and friends.

NEW GOODS

In last evening's GLOBE-REPUBLIC appeared an article giving an account of the arrest of two young men and two women, the latter of out waiting to see that his hair was parted in unjust and untain to withhold them any longer. No sooner had the report of their arrest become public, than gossiping tongues immediately started the report that they were two well known young ladies of this city. This report spread until it became the almost universal impression that they were the guilty ones. It will be remembered that about three weeks ago it was reported that one of these last mentioned ladies was seen on the street in male attire. This also was a mistake as the GLOBE-REPUBLIC is in possession of the name of the real party. But it was this that gave strength to the rumor that one of the girl's in last night's escapade was the same, and that she was accompanied by another lady friend.

The ladies telt very badly, and were considerably worried about the report, and purely as a matter of justice to them, it is stated that the name of the girls re erred to yesterday is Crowell. They are but recently from Columbus, and occupy rooms in the Pile's building, on West Main street.
